

OLD MOTHER SHOT BY POLICEMAN AS HE CLEANS PISTOL

Bullet Hits Mrs. Kilbride's
Shoulder and Advanced Age
Makes Wound Serious.

HURRIED TO A HOSPITAL.

Injured Woman Declares the Arrest of Her Son Would Kill Her.

Patrolman Byron Kilbride of Inspector Daly's staff accidentally shot his mother, Mrs. Esther Kilbride, seventy-five years old, in their home at No. 61 North avenue today, while cleaning his revolver. The bullet penetrated Mrs. Kilbride's shoulder. She was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where it is said that her advanced age will make it difficult for her to survive the wound.

Yesterday and last night Kilbride was on duty at the burned Equitable Building. When he got home he noticed the cartridges in his revolver were rusted. As his mother was preparing breakfast today he set about cleaning the weapon. He went into the kitchen and got a towel from his mother. The cartridges had rusted fast, and he was striving to loosen them when the hammer fell and exploded one cartridge. His mother screamed and fell with a bullet in her shoulder.

Charles Joseph, his younger brother, Kilbride rushed out to get a doctor. Neighbors in the neighborhood would take the body, as it was a shooting. Then he called up Police Headquarters and got an ambulance. On the way home he stopped at St. Bernard's Church and got the Rev. Father Kiernan. Surgeon Walsh was with his mother when Kilbride got back home.

After the wounded woman had been taken to the hospital, Kilbride went to the Charles street station and offered to surrender himself. He was so overcome with grief at what he had done that he was unable to talk.

Capt. Baldwin told him an arrest would not be necessary, as the shooting was clearly an accident. Kilbride is married and is devoted to his mother. On her way to the hospital she cried out hysterically that her son was innocent. She was the most loyal and devoted son a mother ever had, and that if he was arrested it would kill her.

LAW STUDENT JAILED.
Fraudulently Sold Certificate of Completion of Course.

Joseph Golubock, of No. 518 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, a law student who was employed in the Registrar's office of the College of the City of New York, was today sentenced to the penitentiary for six months by Judge Mulqueen in General Session for fraudulently selling certificates of partial completion of college courses.

Golubock pleaded guilty to the charge. His father is an interpreter in the Municipal Courts. It is alleged Golubock sold at least fifty certificates. At the time of the discovery of the fraud, in November 1910, Golubock fled. He was subsequently located at Dallas, Tex., and was brought back to this city last month.

STRIKERS RIOT IN WOOL MILLS; MANY INJURED

Hundreds Break Into Spinning
Rooms and Use Knives in Fighting Bosses and Police.

Several to the Evening World.
LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 12.—A riot was staged and a number of mill officials were injured today in a riot between spinners and their overseers in the Washington and Wood Mills of the American Woolen Company here today.

The rioting grew out of the general unrest among the 15,000 textile operatives of this city. Striking operatives became demonstrative in the spinning rooms this forenoon and a riot call for the police was issued. There were vicious hand to hand encounters and knives were used by some.

The police reserves were called on a riot call, but were so outnumbered they were able to do little or nothing to restore order.

The strikers after leaving the Ayr Mill marched to the Lawrence Duck Mills where a clash with the police occurred outside the gates. Missiles of all descriptions were hurled and several officers were cut. During the disturbance arrests were made. This afternoon 15,000 operatives in the city were idle.

The situation was so serious that the authorities discussed the advisability of asking Gov. Foss to order out the militia to protect the city.

The Washington and Wood mills are among the largest in the world, employing more than 15,000 operatives. The strikers were due to a collection of wages tomorrow. The mill operators say, on a riot in the spinning room from 10 to 12 hours a week, compelled by the state, that which would otherwise be a riot.

Today thousands of striking Italian operatives took possession of the 1000 mill plants and, swarming through the various departments, endeavored to induce all employees to abandon their machines. Several of the overseers at the mills were hit on the head with hammers and scuttles hurled by the infuriated strikers, most of whom are foreigners.

The police were greatly outnumbered, and it was more than an hour before the officers, by freely using their clubs, were able to drive out the demonstrators from the plants. Soon after the trouble started at the Wood mill practically the entire force of 1,000 hands left their machines and hastened to the street, many of them fearing further violence.

A body of 200 Washington mill strikers assembled at the Wood mill gates shouting and yelling. The crowd then marched to the Ayr mill, another big plant in the same place. Carrying a large Italian flag and numerous signs, the strikers stopped at the Ayr mill gates. A large force of police was posted and the crowd forced back. Many of the Ayr mill employees, through fear, abandoned their work, but in a short time the plant was cleared of the demonstrators.

The trouble became so threatening that the American Woolen Company issued orders from the Boston office to shut down the Wood and Ayr mills. These plants employ 5,000 persons. When the mob was ejected from the Ayr mill the leaders ordered a march on the large cotton mills of the Pacific Corporation, which employ 6,000 hands. Five hundred weavers and spinners in the Everett and Arlington cotton mills and the Lawrence Duck Company's mills are out, and it was estimated at 11:30 that nearly 10,000 operatives were idle as the result of the strike.

When the mob invaded the Wood mill the disorderly element cut the pulleys and opened the sprinklers, causing considerable damage.

Important Announcement

On Monday next
at Aeolian Hall, there will begin

A Sale of Exchanged Pianos

which in both the number and character of instruments involved, will far surpass any similar event heretofore held.

548 instruments, all told—modern, desirable instruments, with not a single square piano or worn-out piano in the entire collection—at prices never before equalled for similar values.

In numbers alone, this Sale is of unparalleled magnitude and importance. Of vastly greater significance to the public, however, is the character of the pianos themselves:

Twenty-one Steinways

Fifty-eight Webers

Twelve Stecks

Eighteen Chickering

Mason & Hamlin, Sohmers, Wheelocks, Kranich & Bachs, Stuyvesants, Henry F. Millers, Decker Bros., Krakauers, etc.

Seventy-two Superb Grand Pianos

There is also a magnificent group of Grand Pianos embracing makes known the world over, even to the famous European house of Bechstein.

Such a remarkable array of distinguished instruments appearing in an Exchanged Piano Sale, must have an extraordinary cause. This cause constitutes

A Wonderful Tribute to a Wonderful Instrument—

The Pianola Piano

Every one of these 548 instruments is a trophy for that greatest of all modern pianos—the Pianola Piano. Nothing less than the desire to possess a Pianola Piano could possibly induce the well-to-do owners of such still-perfect pianos to relinquish them.

In all these exchanges, it has been a question of replacing a piano playable only by hand, with an equally good, or better piano playable both by hand and with a music-roll.

These pianos will be on view Saturday—Sale begins Monday Morning, for particulars see Sunday Papers

The Pianola Piano costs from $550 upward

Moderate monthly payments
